

Henry and Louise Peabody are our Liberian missionaries in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Henry's connection with us dates back to the 1990s when he was a Liberian refugee in Ghana, fleeing the civil war that was raging in his homeland. Henry was able to come to the U.S., where he currently resides with his wife Louise in Levittown, Pennsylvania. He is a social worker in the city of Philadelphia, and has a passion to minister to at-risk children. Henry leads weekly Bible studies and prayer meetings in Willingboro, New Jersey, and is enrolled at Villanova University to pursue studies in substance abuse and behavior analysis. He plans to minister to hundreds of Liberians in the Jersey and Pennsylvania area whose lives are torn apart by drugs and alcohol. He is also currently involved in a ministry of providing help to the needy in Liberia. Henry's desire is to return to Liberia and work at Ricks Institute in diverse ministries.
